

I Am From...

By Graham

I am from playing the Minotaurus Lego game with my dad, making him go ALL the way across the board and laughing when he pretends to be mad!

I am from knowing my mom loves me because she puts hard time and effort into making me strong, healthy and making sure that I know she loves me.

I am from having to deal with my annoying big brother who is a fourth grader but also loving him because he is my brother.

I am from going to the fair with my family, riding the Gravitron, while my stomach feels like it's going to be inside out by the end of the ride!

I am from being a boy who feels like he is loved and has a great life!
