

I Am From
By Kameron

I am from being the youngest and feeling happy about it because when my brother and sister are young adults, I'll still be a teenager.

I am from having to listen to my brother and sister "TRY" to be funny when I'm eating and it makes me annoyed.

I am from loving computers and electronics because my brother taught me how and ever since then I've always loved it.

I am from having culture like everyone else even if people think they don't.

I am from being a really curious and artistic child.

I am from being in a new classroom and being scared because I knew nobody.

I am from being a kind, helpful person who helps others when they need it.
