

I Am From...

By Rex

I am from having a loving, thoughtful and great family who I love to spend time with.

I am from having good times with my loving mom and thinking how she puts so much time and effort for me.

I am from watching TV with my dad who keeps our family healthy by working as hard as he can.

I am from liking the soft, cold rain drops of Washington touch my skin like the breeze that chills my bones and blood.

I am from having the sadness of my beautiful dog dying strike my heart like a bolt of crackling lightning.

I am from getting a new dog that is sweet, loving and caring, when that little tongue licks me, I always feel better.

I am from listening to the sound of my sweet and loving dogs barking like the sound of crackling trees.

I am from going to a cold place called Winthrop every year and even no it's cold, it always warms my heart.

I am from being inspired by others, to inspiring others with my thoughtful storms of inspiration.

I am from having a great life, enjoying it sometimes, hating it other times, but knowing no matter what, I will always be me.
