

I Am From...

By Zara

I am from always hearing the nice singing of the doves in the mornings and always feeling happy when I hear them in the morning sunlight

I am from having to be brave when my mom was at the hospital with my baby brother, just after he was born, while having to deal with not being able to go in the isolation room.

I am from always having an awesome time at the fair in Ellensburg every year and having fun with my cousin while we run around looking at all the different rides.

I am from having to be patient at Christmas until we start opening presents or my mom yells "You have to be patient!! We need to have breakfast first!"

I am from being way over excited about things that are going to happen years into the future and having to deal with my family laughing at me for being so far ahead.

I am from loving to work outside with my dad, planting and cutting back different plants and being able to have fun with him while doing it.

I am from almost every night hanging out with my mom and baby brother and playing a game with them or reading to them and having lots of fun!

I am from everyday after school always going on a walk with my mom, baby brother and big brother, going down the roads in our neighborhood and having lots of fun seeing all the beautiful trees!

I am from being both flexible and adaptable when we have to move.

I am from being unique from the rest of my family because I always dance and sing. I am a young artist and am always curious about everything!
