

March 10th, 2016 Was a very windy day. school was 2 hours do to power outages. My bus was running late so my mother drove us to school.

We worked on IXL division skill builder. Then we worked on the how to tutorials which is basically a screencast on google docs stuff like how to login to google drive.

We were so busy with the work that we missed tests. Then we had lunch. I had pizza.

After that we went to computer where we do a typing Agent. Well most of us because my friend named Marc has completed all the lessons in typing Agent.

Mrs. Devora showed us a screencast of her applying for something with the IT.

At the end of the day we watched a video that explains the division program 198÷6.

Then Mrs. Devora invited us to the living room to do more division problems. Then we packed up and we were dismissed.
